Dear Animal friends

November 2020

This month was marked by many emergencies. A lot of wounds had to be treated.

This is ROGER, an abandoned dog. He was found in Bophut with a huge wound on the neck. Overlooked with hundreds of maggots. He had already given up and could therefore be caught relative easily. After the maggots were removed and the wound treated daily, he recovered surprisingly quickly. In the beginning, such wounds are often very small, but the maggots make them very large. If the dog gets no help, the maggots will eat him alive or he will get blood poisoning.

Please contact us if you see injured dogs!
